Guide Highlights Best-in-Class Channel Partner Programs

Atlanta, Georgia, September 19th, 2019 – SEEBURGER Inc., a leader in providing business integration solutions is pleased to announce that CRN[®], a brand of The Channel Company, has recognized SEEBURGER Inc. in its 2019 Cloud Partner Program Guide — the definitive handbook for solution providers looking to partner with today’s top cloud technology vendors.

The SEEBURGER Cloud is a digital ecosystem connecting companies and business partners as well as their data, applications, and services based on a distributed integration platform. It is an open system combining agile integration services, usability with a high level of security, and scalability. We provide B2B/EDI Services, API Integration, and Secure File Transfer Solutions in the Cloud, private or public, together with industry solutions, such as e-Invoicing.

Our proven, scalable integration services are your best alternative to running an integration solution on-premise. Companies benefit from shared services without having to run the required technical solution. Our goal is to create a digital business network for companies of different industries to improve their interaction and to enable secure and scalable data exchange.

Companies need to react fast and innovatively to the challenges of digital transformation. This requires flexible structures in your organization, and our digital ecosystem provides this flexibility. Regardless of whether you are using standardized or individualized business processes, we provide cloud services for all integration tasks, the development of digital ecosystems, and specific requirements of all lines of business.

– Michael Kleeberg, Co-CEO SEEBURGER AG

CRN’s 2019 Cloud Partner Program Guide is a valuable resource for solution providers navigating a growing cloud vendor marketplace. Solution providers use the guide to identify technology suppliers with ground-breaking cloud offerings and unique partner program benefits across cloud infrastructure and applications. In doing so, they can partner with industry-leading technology vendors to address cloud challenges and drive digital transformation for their customers.

“Finding the right technology vendor to partner with is a major challenge, particularly for solution providers with limited time and resources at their disposal,” said Bob Skelley, CEO of The Channel Company. “The Cloud Partner Program Guide simplifies the process of researching and identifying the top cloud partner programs. It features comprehensive resources, support, training, and financial incentives, along with an unprecedented list of innovative technology vendors that consistently meet or exceed partners’ expectations.”
